Great excitement prevailed in the shanty district in the neighborhood of Fifth-ave, below Mount Morris Park yesterday. Patrick O'Reilly, ago forty, a laborer is the Department of Public Works, living in a shanty on the rocks at One-hundred-and-nineteenth-st, and Fifth-ave., had been taken violently sick on Wednesday. Doctors had been called in and decided that the case presented all the symptoms of Asiatic cholera. This news soon leaked out, and the whole neighborhood was soon seized with a panic, even the goats and dogs showing signs of fear. O'Reilly had snuk so low that a priest was summoned in the morning to administer the extreme unction. The first news of the case reached Assistant Superintendent Janes at Police Headquarters yesterday morning. A note from one of the physicians in attendance informed Dr. Janes that he was sure that the case was one of Asiatic cholera, for in the hour preceding the writing of the note the patient had had twelve "typanical" discharges. The beath officers thought that typical discharges were meant. The news created a great sensution about the Board of Health rooms, and the physicians in attendance made up their minds to the hardest kind of werk. Dr. George S. Conant, ene of the inspectors in the fourth sanitary division, was instructed to go at once and make an investigation.

the hardest kind of werk. Dr. George S. Conant, one of the inspectors in the fourth sanitary division, was instructed to go at once and make an investigation.

Dr. Conant found O'Reilly in a little back room, in a critical condition. The room was crowded with mea, women and children both of his own farsily and neighbors from surrounding shanties. Inquiry developed the fact that for his Sunday dunner O'Reilly had partaken heartily of boiled pork and cabbage, and the same evening had been seized with a severe fit of diarrhoa. He became steadily worse, and on Tuesday afternoon physicians were called. The case by that time had apparently got beyond their centrol, and on Wednesdaytheydiagnessed the case as Asiatic cholera and one of them informed the Board of Health of their decision. After a careful examination Dr. Conant found that there were none of the typical diagnostic peculiarities of the dreaded scourge. There was an absence of the inoffensive discharges, the deep sepulchral voice and the heavy dark-colored perspiration, while on the other hand all the symptoms present were those of acute cholera morbus. The doctor also came to the conclusion that the man was suffering from lack of suitable nourishment. After giving suitable prescriptions and directions Dr. Conant came away, leaving O'Reilly much easier and with a fair chance of recovery and the inhabitants of Shanty-Town with an absolute lack of faith in the ability of the physicians who had been called in.

DID LOUIS HANSEN HAVE TWO WIVES? TWO WOMEN WHO CLAIM THAT HE WAS THEIR HUS-BAND-VALUE OF HIS ESTATE.

A little woman with fair complexion and black eyes occupies the second flat at No. 244 West Thirty-first-st., where she is known as Mrs. Emma Mayer. She has been living in the flat for more than a year and was understood by her neighbors in the building to be a widow. Her son, a boy of about ten years, lived with her, and she had a colored servant. On Wednesday Mrs. Mayer made affidavit before a notary affirming that she was the lawful wife of Louis Hansen, the tailor who shot himself on the Fourth of July on Storm King Mountain.

affidavit before a notary affirming that she was the lawful wife of Louis Hansen, the tailor who shot himself on the Fourth of July on Storm King Mountain.

Mrs. Mayer says that she met Hansen at Manhattan Beach in June a year ago. He told her that he was married, that his wife was in Europe and that he was taking measures to secure a divorce. When it was obtained he was to be married to her. On January 27 she consented to a sceret marriage at her house, the ceremony being performed by a Methodist minister whose name she does not know. Two days afterward they started for New-Orleans and were absent three weeks. They registered at the Burnet House, Cincinnati, and at other hotels at which they stopped as husband and wife, and Hansen introduced her to his friends whom they met as his wife. Since then, she says, they have lived together, excepting when he was out of town from time to time, and they dined usually in the evening at Martinelli's in Fifth-ave. She has a note from Hansen which he wrote on July 3, telling her that he was going out of town and would not return until Monday. She did not hear from him again, but read of his death in the newspapers. She never saw him carry a pistol and does not believe that he would commit suicide.

Her lawvers have verified her statement about the New-Orleans trip by the hotel registers. They have made inquiries to learn if Hansen was ever married in Copenhagen, where he has a sister living, but as yet they have received no reply. Mrs. Mayer is apparently familiar with Hansen's affairs. In addition to the property that has been attributed to him, estimated at $150,000, she says that he had a considerable amount invested in Government securities.

At Hansen's store the bookkeeper denied any knowledge of her claims as Hansen's wife. A day or two after the death of Mr. Hansen a woman, who, he supposes was Mrs. Mayer, entered the store and appeared to be examining it. When asked what she desired she did not claim to be Hansen's wife, but a friend of his. The records at Jeffers

CONTEST OVER ERIE RAILROAD TAXES.

CONTEST OVER ERIE RAILEGAD TAXES.

The New-York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad Company refuses to pay the city $119,179 in personal taxes assessed against that company for the year 1882, and it has asked for an injunction to prevent the city from the collection of the same pending a suit in equity to declare the taxes void. Colonel E. T. Wood, as attorney for the company, yesterday served notice of such an action on the city. The ground of action is based on a recent decision of the Court of Appeals, which requires the Commissioners of Taxes to assess the capital stock of a corporation at its actual value, instead of its par or market value. In 1882 the Tax Commissioners assessed this railroad company on its nominal capital stock, deducting therefrom the assessed value of its real estate and its now taxable investments. The remainder of the capital stock after such deductions were made was assessed as personal estate at something less than its market value, in the case of the Twenty-third Street Railroad Company, since decided by the Court of Appeals, it was held that the Tax Commissioners should have made their deductions from the actual value of the stock instead of the nominal value. On the basis of this decision the Eric Company now brings its suit to nave the Eaxe for 1882 declared void.

The recent decision in the case of the Mutual Telegraph Company will be cited by the city as debarring the railroad company from any legal claim for relief. The telegraph company was assessed on its capital stock and was so informed by the Tax Commissioners. The company made no application for relief in the time fixed by law, but contested the payment of the tax on the ground that it was not liable. The Courts held that having neglected to make application in the time fixed by the statute the assessment must stand. It is thought by the city authorities that the same decision will govern the case now brought by the Eric Railroad Company.

ARRESTED FOR KILLING HIS WIFE.

James Burch, a florist, of Parkville, L. I., was arrested yesterday upon a warrant issued by Police Justice Walsh, of Brooklyn, charging him with causing the death of his wife, Jane, age thirty-five. According to the sworn statement of John Davis who was employed in Burch's greenhouse, Burch struck his wife in the back with a spade on June 11, causing injuries which resulted in her death on Monday, at the Kings County Hospital. They had be lived on good terms for some time and fremently quarrelled. Burch was in a passion when struck the blow. He has a greenhouse and grounds near the Washington Cemetery. The nameral of Mrs. Burch took place yesterday in St. John's Episcopal Church in Parkville. Davis visited the office of District-Attorney Ridgway yesterday, and upon his affidavit the warrant was issued, and Detective Roche arrested Burch and took him to Brooklyn. He dealed assaulting his wife. The body of the lead woman was placed in a receiving vault in Washington Cemetery and an antopay will be made and an inquest held. HANDY TO HAVE A WIFE'S GRANDMOTHER.

Thomas Broughton, of No. 120 Clymer-st., Brooklyn, was before Police Justice Nacher yesterday, charged with stealing $355 from the trunk of Mrs. Annie Lamoreaux, the grandmother of his wife, who was visiting their house. Broughton, who is a young Englishman, made the acquaintance of the girl, whom he afterward married, a few months ago, and soon gained her aftections. He did no work and had plenty of money, which he said came from a rich nucle in England. He even proposed to take his wife to see his parent, but she did not desire to leave her relatives, who had warmly welcomed their son-in-law. Mysterious robberies occurred in the house at short intervals, and additional bars and bolts did not seem to afford security. When the $355 was missed on Wednesday the police were called in and as suspicion pointed to Broughton, he was arrested. He had $159 and had given his wife $40, while with the rest he had bet and lost at the Brighton Beach race-track. He was arrested on returning from the races. Pawn tickets for some of the articles missed from the house were found upon him.

He was charged before Justice Nacher with stealing the money from Mrs. Lamoreaux, a gold thimble from Mrs. Elizabeth Lamoreaux, and $2 from a servant, Margaret Hill, employed by the family. Broughton is twenty-four years old, and his wife is highly connected. It is alleged that he first used up $800 belonging to his wife, and then began to steal what he could conveniently lay his handan pon. The family suspected what he was doing, but chose not to make the matter public until the money was taken. He was sent to Raymond Street Jail pending examination. HANDY TO HAVE A WIFE'S GRANDMOTHER.

ACQUITTED OF FORGERY BUT AGAIN ARRESTED.

Charles E. Ackron was tried in the Court of Sessions, Jersey City, rosterday for forgery. He hadbeen engaged in the business of soliciting orders for confectionery. On the 14th of last February after banking hours he got a number of worthless checks cashed by tradesmens. In some cases he made small purchases, paid for them with a check and received the balance in cash. On Sunday night he left the city and was captured in Chicago. The checks were drawn on the Second National Bank of Jersey City, signed by Benjamin F. McOmber and indorsed by Ackron. They were for amounts ranging from $10 to $49. None of them was depested until the following Mouday and it was Wednesday before they came back to the swindled tradesmen with the indorsement "no account." McOmber testified that he knew nothing about the checks. He admitted that he was with Ackron when several of the checks were passed. Ackron testified in his own behalf that the checks were given to him by McOmber and he passed them belleving them to be good. The jury acquitted the defendant on the charge of forgery. Ackron and McOmber were immediately arrested on a charge of conspiracy and required to furnish

PROSPECTS OF A SHORT HAY OROP.

The present indications are that the hay crop this year will be from 10 to 25 per cent below the average yield. While in some parts of the country the prospects are fair for a normal product, yet, in general, there will be more or less of a failing off. A few days ago, William Afflick & Co., one of the largest hay commission firms in the city, sont out inquiries as to the condition of the crop all throads the State. The responses indicate that between Rome and Niagara the outlook is favorable for an ordinary yield, but on this side and north of Rome, from which 90 per cent of the city's supply comes, the yield will be 20 per cent below that of last year, and in some districts even more than that. There is little, if any, of last year's hay on hand. Frazor & Co., of West Thirty-fourth-st., handle the larger part of the Canada hay that is brought here. They report that the crop in the southers part of the Dominion is light. There is an improvement toward the North, but altogether the yield will fall considerably below the ordinary crop.

AN INTERNATIONAL LAW CONGRESS.

The Beigian Government has decided to hold at Brussels in September an international congress for the elaboration of an international code of commercial law. The three subjects with which it was originally intended that this congress should deal were bill of exchange, maritime law and contracts for transportation. It has, however, since been decided to limit the discussions of the congress to the first two of these subjects. On April 7 Count d'Archot addressed to Mr. Bayard a letter expressing the desire of the Belgian Government that the United States should send delegates to this congress. The delegates from each nation are to be three in number, but those governments which do not approve the programme in its entirety may limit their participation in the work of the congress to one of the subjects proposed, in which case they may diminish the number of their delegates. Mr. Bayard has forwarded the correspondence between himself and the Belgian Minister to the president of the Chamber of Commerces of New-York, and with it a note stating that there is no legal sanction or appropriation for sending delegates to such a congress, but that if the Chamber of Commerce should desire to send a delegate, the Department of State would gladly indorse him. In compliance with the Secretary's suggestion the Chamber of Commerce yesterday appointed ex-Judge Charles A. Peabody to attend the congress. He will start for Belgium at an early day.

RICHARD R. WATSON STILL MISSING.

Richard R. Watson, the stationer of No. 49 Maiden Lane, who disappeared about two weeks ago, is still missing. His liabilities, as far as have been ascertained, amount to about $7,000, and his assets, consisting of stock and fixtures, are about $3,000. The liabillities will undoubtedly be considerably increased, as new claims against him for money borrowed from his friends are appearing every day. These sums vary from $100 to $300. From a letter written to Henry Morrison, fr., the bookkeeper of Mr. Watson, it appears that he was unable to pay his debts, and not having the courage to meet his creditors he fled with the intention of never returning. He was last heard from in Philadelphia. Watson lived with his wife and three children at No.
312 East One-lundred-and-twentieth-st. Mrs. Watson was left penniless and has broken up her home and gone to live with her brothers. While Mr. Watson was living addition londs of the society for $2,000; the Congresation B'nai Jeshuram, $500, and an additional $500 in trust, the income to be spent in keeping his burnal plot

in good order; the Home for Aged and Infirm Hebrews, $2,000; the United Hebrew Charities, $2,000. The rest of the estate is divided among his family. His sons, David J. King, Burnett J. King and Edward J. King, jr., and his son-in-line, Jodah H. Solomon, are the executors, and his wife, Rosaile King, executrix.

William Fedden, of the firm of William Fedden & Co., butchers, of No. 390 Manhattan-ave., Brooklyn, has cautioned the public not to recognize orders or checks signed with the firm's name. He has taken this precaution by reason of the sudden disappearance of his partner, Herman Ricker, who bad authority to sign the firm's unue, it is charged that Ricker raised several hundreds of dollars among the customers of the firm before he went away, and Mr. Fedden fears that at least $2,000 is missing, for which he is responsible. Detectives are looking for Ricker.

INDUSTRIAL GROWTH IN THE SOUTH. RAPID DEVELOPMENT IN THE LAST SIX MONTHS-ENCOURAGING OUTLOOK.

ENCLURAGING OULLOOK.

From The Baltisware Manufacturers Record.

The industrial growth of the South during the last six mouths has been very marked, notwithstanding the general depression in hearly all business interests throughout the world. From Maryland to Texas there has been great activity in the organization of new onterprises, and, with the return of better times which are now so confidently anticipated, there will be a still more rapid development of the manufacturing, mining and railrond interests of the South. The growth of Southern industries is not confined to any one line, but covers a which directly of enterprises.

In the list of new enterprises organized or established in the South during the first six months of 1885 there will be found furnace companies to make pig from foundries and machine shops, steel works, cotton seed oit mills, cotton compresses, fruit canning factories, carriage and wagon factories, agricultural implement factories, flour mills, grist mills, saw mills, planing mills, sass, doer and blind factories, spirultural implement factories, flour onlis, grist mills, saw mills, planing mills, sass, doer and blind factories, wire feateries, thaceoffactories, brick yards, tee factories, fertilizer factories, furniture factories, stove foundries, wire feater factories, fline works, soal pactories, tameries, glass works, gas works, whitting factories, distilleries, potteries, marble and state quarrying companies, and companies to mine coal, iron ore, gold, sliver, inica, natural gas, off, etc., showing that the South's progress is a steady advance in all lines and not an unhealthy, because oversimmilated, growth of any one industry.

During the first six months of 1885 the amount of capital, including capital stock of incorporated companies, mivested in new manufacturing and mining enterprises at the South, and in the enlargement of old plants and rebuilding of mills after being destroyed by fire, aggregates about $36,514,000. It is, of course, true that with some of these companies fo
